Early intervention and counselling centre of Lebenshilfe in Solingen

Great worries

Some infants and toddlers may give parents cause for concern, because they...

- are prematurely born.
- develop slower or „different“ than their peers.
- are conspicuously quiet or restless.
- don't have confidence in themselves or give up quickly.
- don't seek contact with parents or others.
- do not speak properly or hardly at all.
- are insecure in movement.
- are at risk of disability or were born disabled

We find solutions!

For parents, this usually means a search for offers of help combined with emotions of uncertainty, fear, grief and a lot of questions...

- Early intervention and counselling centre (Frühförder- und Beratungsstelle) is the right contact!
- We take the time to listen to you.
- Together we choose from our offer what is most important and suitable for your child and your family.
- Call us to arrange a non-binding appointment to get information and advice.

No costs

Early support for developmentally delayed children and the counselling of families are financed by the Landschaftsverband Rheinland (LVR).

A curative education view of the human being is the basic principle of our work.

We respect human diversity and want to accept each one in his or her uniqueness. The competence to establish relationship is the basis for the process of growth and development. In addition to curative education need, it is important to find out and support the individual strengths and competencies of each child.
